Legastat Ltd is committed to conducting its business professionally, fairly and with integrity in all its business dealings and relationships.

We operate a zero-tolerance approach to bribery and corruption and are committed to complying with all applicable laws, including the UK Bribery Act 2010.

Our employees, directors, contractors and other individuals acting on our behalf are expected to maintain the highest standards of ethical business conduct and to act honestly and transparently in all business activities.

We are committed to:

- Preventing bribery and corruption in all forms.
- Maintaining appropriate procedures and controls to reduce bribery risks.
- Promoting a culture of integrity and ethical conduct.
- Encouraging the reporting of concerns regarding suspected wrongdoing.
- Investigating reports of suspected bribery or corruption appropriately and fairly.
- Protecting individuals who raise genuine concerns in good faith.

Bribery and corruption have no place within our business, and we are committed to maintaining the standards expected by our clients, employees, suppliers and business partners. For further information regarding our compliance arrangements,
